SUN COUNTRY AIRLINES PARTNERS WITH LANDLINE TO MAKE AIR TRAVEL MORE ACCESSIBLE ACROSS GREATER MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS. September 12, 2019 – Sun Country Airlines has partnered with Landline, a regional mobility company, to make air travel more affordable and accessible to Duluth and Mankato-area residents. Landline provides bus segments to book as part of a passenger's air travel itinerary, and later this year, Sun Country customers will be able to book this directly on suncountry.com.

"We are excited to partner with Landline to make our low fares and comfortable onboard experience available to more Minnesotans," said Sun Country Airlines CEO Jude Bricker. "Our mission is to affordably connect our guests to their favorite people, places and memories, and this partnership is another way for us to do that. We look forward to making our service more accessible to Duluth and Mankato."

Landline operates motor coaches with free Wi-Fi, reclining leather seats, and an onboard snack and beverage service. When Landline service launches with Sun Country, guests will visit suncountry.com and list either Mankato or Duluth as their departure city. MSP will show up as a connection, and guests will clearly see which leg of their itinerary is a bus and which is a flight. Sun Country passengers who wish to check luggage will be able to do so when they check in with Landline and have their luggage transferred directly to the plane, creating a seamless connecting "flight."

"We are focused on building a robust operating model that provides our customers a completely seamless connection between the ground and the air," said Landline CEO David Sunde. "Passengers currently making these trips are forced to choose between high cost, inefficient options. Landline is here to fill that gap, and we are excited to have Sun Country Airlines as one of our first airline partners."

Customers can try Landline's premium bus service today from Duluth, Minneapolis, and Mankato by visiting www.landline.com. Service in partnership with Sun Country begins in November.
